Citation: Researchers wishing to cite this collection should include the following information: [item], [folder], [box], Herman Silas Pepoon Papers, Chicago Academy of Sciences / Peggy Notebaert Nature Museum.

Acquisition Information: Accession 1956.30. Donation from Laura Constance Pepoon. Additional materials from accession 2001.1; Donation from Carol L. Doty.

Processor and Date: Julie Wroblewski and Amber K. King, August 2010 – October 2010

Processing Note: Dates are not all inclusive. Organization is not based on original order as materials moved repeatedly before final processing. Approximately .25 linear feet of duplicative and unrelated materials was removed. Original housing boxes for the lantern slides as well as several field notebooks containing botanical specimens are stored separately; see the container list for exact locations.

Biographical Sketch: Herman Silas Pepoon (1860-1941) was a physician, teacher, botanist, and naturalist with a particular focus on the plants of Illinois and the Midwest. He was born in Warren, IL to George and Mary (Abbey) Pepoon. Pepoon married Alma Wilcox (1863-1893) in 1883, with whom he had three children: Rudolph Silas (b.1885-d.1959), Mary Lucille (1887-1918), and Constance Laura Buckley (1890-1963). After her death in 1893, he married Helen Sophia Foberg (1878-1931) in 1900.

Pepoon graduated from the University of Illinois (1881) and received his medical degree from Hahnemann Medical College (1883). He spent almost ten years practicing medicine in Lewistown, IL (1883-1892), during which time he also served as the Fulton County Fish Warden (1889-1892). Pepoon left the field of medicine and became a teacher and school physician at Lakeview High School (1892-1930) in Chicago, IL and later head of the school's Department of Botany (1912-1930). After his retirement from teaching, he worked with the Illinois Natural History Survey (1931-1933), helping with the collection and study of vascular plants.

Pepoon was an active and well-known presence in Illinois' scientific community. He was a Life Member of The Chicago Academy of Sciences (CAS), which named him Honorary Curator of Botany for the institution in 1930. The CAS published his best known work, the book An Annotated Flora of the Chicago Area, in 1927. In addition, he published a botanical teaching manual Studies of Plant Life: A Series of Exercises for the Study of Plants (1900) with co-authors Walter R. Mitchell and Fred B. Maxwell. Pepoon also published numerous articles on botany, forestry, and ecology in scientific journals such as "Destruction of a Farm Flora (Plant World, 1903), "Flora of Southwest Michigan (Michigan Academy of Sciences, 1906), and "Cliff Flora of Jo Daviess County, IL" (Michigan Academy of Sciences, 1909). He also served as president of the Chicago Mycological Society (1894-1900) and in a variety of offices at the Illinois State Academy of Science.

During his tenure at Lakeview, Pepoon continued to research, collect, and advocate for the preservation of botanical species in Illinois and the U.S. He also dabbled in farming and fruit growing with his brother, William Abbey Pepoon. He spent a considerable amount of time exploring Apple River Canyon, where he identified and collected over 500 species of plants. One of his most noteworthy discoveries in the canyon was Bird's Eye primrose (Primula mistassinica), a plant previously found only in more northerly locations. Pepoon devoted substantial effort toward the preservation of the Apple River Canyon region, including testifying before the Illinois State Academy of Science (1908) in favor of making it a state park.

Scope and Content: The materials in this collection include personal papers, correspondence, authored books and articles, field notebooks and notes, scrapbooks, clippings and photographic images from Herman Silas Pepoon's life and research. The materials, particularly the photographs, focus heavily on Pepoon's botanical collecting trips and research, including his work in the Apple River Canyon Area of Illinois and the development of his book An Annotated Flora of the Chicago Region.

Series Description:

Series 1: Personal (1900-1939, undated)

This series contains materials related to Pepon's life and activities such as lists of patients seen in his medical practice and general notes. It also includes correspondence with the Chicago Academy of Sciences and R.R. Donnelly and Sons regarding publication of An Annotated Flora of the Chicago Region, as well as with various governmental agencies.

Series 2: Botanical Catalogs and Lists (1876-1937, undated)

This series contains lists and catalogs of botanical species in various regions of the U.S., predominantly Illinois, created or owned by Pepon. It includes items such as lists of plant species for Morgan and Center Counties, lake-side plants in Michigan, and a list of native plants, trees, and shrubs for Illinois roadside planting.

Series 3: Field Notes (1860-1941, undated)

This series contains notes from Pepon's field work and collecting trips. It is divided into five sub-series: notes, Illinois; notes, other; Field Notebooks; field cards; and botany specimens. It includes items such as hand-drawn maps, annotated maps, illustrations and sketches, lists, notebooks, field cards, other records of the botanical and zoological observations from Pepon's research and collecting trips, and some pressed plant specimens, most identified with locality data. The bulk of the materials pertain to Illinois and the Midwest, with county-level maps featuring the Ozark extension counties and Jo Daviess County in particular. Some other U.S. locations, such as the Smoky Mountain region of Tennessee, are also represented. The pressed botany specimens include loose specimens but also contain a bound book that contains varieties of oaks. The botany specimens are housed separately from the rest of the collection, RVWD.302.Bot 11.R-S.

Series 4: Scrapbooks (undated)

This series contains scrapbooks of agricultural and botanical articles and points of interest created by H.S. Pepon, including one on food plants of the world.

Series 5: Printed Materials (1905-1940, undated)

This series contains articles, bibliographies, maps, clippings, and other published materials created, authored, or owned by H.S. Pepon. Included in the series is a proof copy of An Annotated Flora of the Chicago Region with handwritten corrections, published by the Chicago Academy of Sciences and printed by the Chicago company, R.R. Donnelly and Sons, and its related receipts and prospectus. Also included are various Illinois state and county maps and Pepon's list of the best observation locations in Illinois.

Series 6: Photographic Materials (undated) (stored separately: photographic prints and acetate negatives: RVWD.302 Film Room. Unit 1.J; undamaged glass plate negatives and lantern slides:

RVWD.302 Film Room.Unit 7.A; damaged glass plate negatives: RVWD.302 Film Room. Unit 1.C-F; wooden boxes storing lantern slides: RVWD.202.HIS 5.D)

This series contains photographic images made by or owned by H.S. Pepoon. It is divided into nine sub-series: envelopes and containers, photographic prints, acetate negatives, 3 x 5.25" glass plate negatives, 4 x 5" glass plate negatives, 5 x 7" glass plate negatives, 8 x 10" glass plate negatives, 3 x 4" and irregular glass plate negatives, and 3 x 4" lantern slides. Box 14 contains the original envelopes and wrappers found with the items and which were removed when the items were re-housed. Two wooden boxes that originally housed the lantern slides were transferred to the Scientific History collection. The images include Pepoon, his family members, and his colleagues as well as various home and travel locations and images of botanical and zoological species he observed. Also included are a significant number of close-ups of Midwestern prairie plant and mycological species, as well numerous locations within the Apple River Canyon area of Jo Daviess County, Illinois (now Apple River Canyon State Park).
