Citation: Researchers wishing to cite this collection should include the following information: [item], [folder], [box], Chicago Ornithological Society Papers, Chicago Academy of Sciences / Peggy Notebaert Nature Museum.

Acquisition Information: The Chicago Ornithological Society donated their papers to the CAS/PNNM archive in March 2014.

Processor and Date: Dawn Roberts, July 2014; updated Dec 2018, updated Jan 2021

Processing Note: Organization of the records is not based upon original order. Staples, paper clips, etc. were removed as was duplicate material. Material removed from three-ring binders and rehoused in archival folders when appropriate. Photocopies are included in the collection and should not be considered primary source material. These were retained as they were part of the research conducted by COS members into their organization's history.

The collection may continue to grow as materials are generated by the Chicago Ornithological Society and transferred to the archives. Information pertaining to individuals associated with the Society, including R.M. Strong and W.J. Beecher, may also be found in other areas in the CAS/PNNM archives.

Biographical Sketch: The Chicago Ornithological Society is a non-profit organization in Chicago, Illinois that was founded in 1912 by Dr. Reuben M. Strong of the University of Chicago, along with other scientists with an interest in ornithology and some of his students at the university. Early membership focused on the study of bird populations in the Chicago region, a focus that continues today with programs, field trips, and habitat conservation initiatives.

Scope and Content: The collection includes the administrative records of the Chicago Ornithological Society, general correspondence, and research into the organization's history conducted by members. The bulk of the collection consists of bird sighting data, in the form of checklist cards, ledgers, and compilations of data.

Series Description:

Series 1: Administrative (1935-2008)

Consists of general correspondence, Board meeting minutes and resolutions, membership lists, and programs.

Series 2: Ephemera (undated)

This section includes the following ephemera items:

- a badge and window sticker with the COS emblem
- a glass cleaning cloth with the COS name, website, and artwork
- one 35mm slide with "Karls truck" and "* Pete Drine" written on the front. Image is of a white truck with signage on the proper right door: "Karl E. Bartel", "Blue Island Ill.", "US Fish & Wildlife Bird Bander"
- a "Silver Anniversary Honors" award from the Chicago Audubon Society to the Chicago Ornithological Society

Series 3: Financial (1976-2009, undated)

This section includes annual budget summaries, contributions COS made to other organizations, donations to COS, treasurer notes, and financial correspondence relating to COS events.

Series 4: People (undated)

This section consists of references from other sources about individuals associated with COS collected by COS members as part of research into the organization's history.

Series 5: References (ca.1946-ca.1975)

A card catalogue of bibliographic references for geology and paleontology, botany, ornithology, science, etc., thought to be attributed to Frances J. Carter, COS Treasurer, and created ca.1946-ca.1975.

Series 6: Printed Materials (1925-2005, undated)

This includes printed materials from the COS, such as announcements, pamphlets, letter head, and newsletters. Also includes references collected by COS members into research of their organization, birding sites, and bird species.

Series 7: Bird Sighting Data (1926-2012, undated)

This series consists of the materials relating to data collected through group or individual field work. Three sub-series are part of this section:

Sub-series 1: Ledgers (1926-1980) – contains ledger books with sighting data from the Christmas Bird Count (CBC) and COS field trips

Sub-series 2: Checklists Entered into E-Bird (1927-1979, undated) – these are data cards that COS members have entered into an online database called E-Bird.

Sub-series 3: Checklists Not Entered into E-Bird (1926-1979, undated) – these are data cards that have not been entered into the E-Bird online database.
